

Welcome new and returning faculty, students and staff to another exciting year as CCSJ! In this Newsletter, we will introduce you again the Library resources and services available to you.

Specker Library has a wide range of materials and services students, faculty and staff can utilize for their study and research. We have close to 10,000 book and journal back issues, DVDs, AV equipment, and a number of online databases. EBSCO Online Databases, one of the most popular databases in the world, contain thousands of full text scholarly articles with reference and citation features. Interlibrary loan service (IL) enables you to borrow materials from other libraries nationwide. Library instructions, references and research assistance are also available at the Library. Library instructions cover areas including how to search for the most updated and related materials in a quick and efficient way, how to cite the reference, how to save and archive your searches. Dr. Qi Chen, Library Director can also help you with your assignments, projects or research paper, helping students find and or refine topics, interpret literature and write to avoid plagiarism using different writing styles including APA. Please come to see Qi!

Library Staff Professional Development

In June 2018, Qi attended Chinese American Librarians Association (CALA) Annual Conference held at the American Library Association (ALA) and received President Recognition Award. Currently, Qi is a board member of CALA and on the Steering Committee of the Joint Council of Librarians of Color (JCLC) preparing for the 3rd JCLC National Conference, in September. Qi is also the recipient of JCLC Legacy Award honoring her over 20 years of contribution to the field of Library Information Science. The award will be given at the JCLC Conference in September.

Library Update In the fall, CCSJ’s mailroom will be moved into the current DVD room in the library. With this move, students and faculty can get
