SPECIAL RESOURCE EDITION: BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

BIMONTHLY NEWSLETTER

VOL I, ISSUE V (OCTOBER 5TH 2015)

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the fifth issue of the Specker Library Newsletter! In this special edition issue, we cover how to find books in the area of business and economics. In addition, towards the end of the issue, we highlight our library's recent involvement in the Heart Walk, which took place at the Lake County Fairgrounds.

FEATURE

RESOURCE HIGHLIGHT:

NORTHWEST INDIANA BUSINESS QUARTERLY

The Specker Library currently subscribes to Northwest Indiana Business Quarterly, a magazine highlighting local businesses, as well as business-related news and events from the Northwest Indiana region. Faculty, staff, and students are able to read the publication inside the library, free of charge.

LOCATING BOOKS IN THE AREA OF BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

Aisles labeled with letters HB—HF contain books about economics and business.

As many of you know from our previous issue, our library's collection is divided into broad subject areas and each aisle is labeled with a set of letters and a range of numbers to help you identify where books are located. Books in the field of business and economics, unlike those in education, are located under a broader heading "Social Sciences," identified with the letter "H." Under this broad heading, are ranges of subheadings with a second letter, including subheadings for finding books about business and economics:

- HB – HE Economics
- HF Commerce

SPOTLIGHT : LIBRARY AT THE HEART WALK

On Saturday, September 19th, some of the Specker Library staff and student workers participated in the Heart Walk at the Lake County Fairgrounds, an event sponsored by the American Heart Association. Senior staff member Robert Bussie, the library's Circulation & Cataloging Manager, along with student workers Samantha Smith, the team's leader, and Megan Kristek, were in attendance. The library director, Qi Chen, although not in attendance, donated money for the worthy cause.
