VOL II, ISSUE XIII (NOV 21ST 2016)

In this issue of the Specker Library Newsletter, we highlight our new “Classic Books” display. In addition, Martin Martinez shares a photograph of Bishop Grutka with Congressman Pete Visclosky, who was recently re-elected to his 17th two-year term.

CLASSIC BOOKS DISPLAY

Students and staff coming to the library this week will notice a new “Classic Books” display located near the library’s entrance. This display features a selection of classic works from authors such as Victor Hugo, Shakespeare, and Harriet Beecher Stowe. Stop by today and check out one of these great classics!

Some of the featured titles:

- “Moby Dick” (1851) by Herman Melville.
- “Les Miserables” (1862) by Hugo Victor.
- “The tragedy of Macbeth” by William Shakespeare.

AN UPDATE FROM THE ARCHIVES

STUDENTS SHARE THEIR THOUGHTS

With Thanksgiving almost here, we asked students to share with us what they were thankful for. Many students expressed appreciation for their family, friends, and their education. Other students expressed gratitude for the community they live in, their pets, and for being alive. What are you thankful for this Thanksgiving?
